EXECUTIVE Summary

The Office of Child Support Enforcement (OCSE) is part of the Administration for Children and Families (ACF) within the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS). HHS is the principal agency for protecting the health of all Americans and providing essential human services, especially for those who are least able to help themselves. ACF's mission is to foster health and well-being by providing federal leadership, partnership, and resources for the compassionate and effective delivery of human services. The ultimate ACF vision is that children, youth, families, individuals, and communities are resilient, safe, healthy, and economically secure.

Child support makes a big difference to children and families

Child support is an important income source for families. According to a 2016 U.S. Bureau of Census survey, child support represents 47 percent of custodial parent's income for poor custodial parents with income below the poverty level who receive child support.

Research has shown that a dollar of child support income has a greater effect on how well a child does in school than do other sources of family income. [1]

The Child Support Program is a federal/ state/ tribal/local partnership that operates under Title IV-D of the Social Security Act with the vision that children can count on their parents for the financial, medical, and emotional support they need to be healthy and successful even when they live in different households. The program functions in 54 states and territories, and 63 tribes. The national child support program assures that assistance in obtaining support is available to children through locating parents, establishing paternity, establishing and modifying support obligations, and monitoring and enforcing these obligations.

In recent years, the program has shifted its focus from welfare cost reimbursement to family support, with an emphasis on obtaining regular support for children and removing barriers to consistent payment. The national child support program is one of the largest income support programs for families, contributing money to family budgets to help pay for the basics—shelter, food, child care, transportation, and school clothes.

The OCSE Annual Report to Congress highlights financial and statistical child support achievements based on data reported by state and tribal child support agencies. The content of the Annual Report is mandated by Section 452(a) under Title IV-D of the Social Security Act to give congressional members information that relates to the overall operations and success of the national child support program.

In FY 2016, OCSE worked collaboratively with state and tribal programs and a variety of public and private partners to engage parents in the lives of their children, increase the economic stability of both parents, strengthen family relationships, secure health care coverage, and prevent family violence. These strategies contributed to improvements in program performance and payments for children and provided help to parents struggling to support their families.

The Child Support Program made solid progress in its mission to increase family self-sufficiency and meet the needs of children and their families during FY 2016. These accomplishments are discussed further in the Highlights section of the report and supported by the data in the state and tribal program performance sections and the tables in the Appendix.

HIGHLIGHTS of the year

ACHIEVEMENTS

[1] Due to rounding, collections values may not sum to the total.

In FY 2016, OCSE promoted effective approaches and excellent customer service to achieve the program goal of ensuring that children can count on receiving consistent financial support from their parents living apart from them. OCSE, states, and tribes identified evidence-based strategies, including setting accurate orders to improve payment compliance rates and intervening early when payments stop. OCSE emphasized to states and territories the need for technology modernization and employer outreach to increase income withholding and new hire reporting compliance. OCSE also emphasized the importance of partnering with private and public programs that nurture healthy relationships between both parents and their children and with employment programs that can increase the capacity of low-skilled parents to earn and provide child support.

STATE PROGRAM PERFORMANCE

The Child Support Program measures its successes in helping families become self-sufficient through a variety of outcome-based measures. This section describes the statistical performance of the national, state, and tribal programs.

Performance-Based Incentives and Penalties

The Child Support Program has a strong outcome-based performance management system established by the Child Support Performance and Incentive Act of 1998 (CSPIA). Under CSPIA, states are measured in five program areas: paternity establishment, support order establishment, current support collections, cases paying towards arrears, and cost effectiveness. This performance-based incentive and penalty program is used to reward states for good or improved performance and to impose penalties when state performance falls below a specified level and has not improved. Performance data maintained by states are regularly audited for completeness and reliability. Penalties are assessed when a state's measured level of performance in paternity establishment, support orders established, or current support collected falls below the specified level, or when a state's data used to compute incentive measures are found to be incomplete or unreliable, or when a state is found to be non-compliant with certain federal child support requirements.

From FY 2015 to FY 2016, the IV-D caseload paternity establishment percentage increased from 100 to 102 percent, while the statewide rate was 94 percent compared to 95 percent in 2015.

FY 2016 Performance Highlights

$32.7 billion in child support collections

Federal Performance Measures:

- Paternity Establishment Percentage:
  - Statewide Paternity 94%
  - IV-D Paternity 102%
- Cases with Orders: 86%
- Current Collections: 65%
- Arrearage Cases: 64%
- Cost Effectiveness: $5.33

Total Expenditures:

- $5.7 billion ($3.4 billion in federal funds and $2.3 billion in state funds).

Over this same period, the percent of cases with support orders established remained at 86 percent, the current support collection rate remained at 65 percent, and the proportion of cases paying towards arrears was 64 percent. Cost effectiveness increased from $5.26 to $5.33 in FY 2016. Together, these performance rates remained at an all-time high for the child support program.

AUDIT AND DATA RELIABILITY AUDITS

Child support performance data are audited to ensure that they are reliable. Congress mandates OCSE to conduct annual data reliability audits and reviews to evaluate completeness, accuracy, security, and reliability of the data reported and produced by state reporting systems. These data reliability audits, performed by the OCSE Office of Audit, help ensure that incentives are earned and paid on the basis of verifiable data only and that the incentive payment system is fair and equitable. In FY 2016, data from states and territories for FY 2015 was audited. Fifty-three states and territories passed their data reliability audits. One state/territory failed the audits for FY 2015. No state/territory received a penalty letter due to failing the audits. One state/territory received a penalty letter for failing to meet the performance threshold. One state/territory that failed the audit for FY 2014 received a congratulatory letter for reporting complete and reliable data in FY 2015.

COST AUDITS

OCSE is required by Section 452(a)(4)(C)(ii) of the Social Security Act to evaluate the adequacy of the financial management of each state's child support program. Specifically, OCSE is mandated to perform reviews of expenditures claimed by states for federal reimbursement.

The primary objectives of a cost audit are to determine whether the claimed child support costs are allowable, allocable, and reasonable, and to ensure that states bear their fair share of child support costs. Financial audits are performed after the data reliability audits are completed, to the extent that resources permit. The OCSE Office of Audit did not issue any cost reports during FY 2016.

FEDERAL SYSTEMS

OCSE has an expansive portfolio of IT services and programs, referred to as Federal Systems, that assist states and tribes in effectively and efficiently achieving the core mission of the program – providing child support to millions of our nation's children. Federal Systems are composed of multiple systems, including three that are critical to the business mission of the child support program and the child support portal gateway:

- National Directory of New Hires (NDNH), a database of employment and unemployment data;

- Federal Case Registry (FCR), a national database of child support participants, cases, and orders;
- Debtor File, a database of noncustodial parents who owe past-due support that assists states and tribes with collection of past-due support through the Administrative and Federal Tax Refund Offset and Passport Denial programs, and through the Multistate Financial Institution Data Match (MSFIDM) and Insurance Match (IM) programs; and
- Child Support Portal, which provides authorized users a secure online gateway to Federal Systems.

$3.9 Billion
The amount of collections attributable to Federal Systems in FY 2016, which represents 12 percent of total child support collections of $32.7 billion.

The Federal Parent Locator Service (FPLS) is a primary component of the Federal Systems. FPLS data is, by Social Security statute Section 453 [42 U.S.C. 653], made available to state and tribal child support agencies to assist them in their efforts to ensure that children receive support as ordered. In 2014, Public Law 113-183, Section 302 authorized tribal access to specific components of the FPLS, including the NDNH and FCR.

Over time, OCSE expanded this portfolio to provide IT services and programs that assist both child support and other critical program partners – employers, financial institutions, insurers, and other federal agencies – in their efforts to support the child support program in cost-effective and efficient ways. These systems support critical location and collection services and facilitate information and data exchange.

In FY 2016, Federal Systems activities included:

- NDNH data matches resulted in $804 million in child support collections through income withholding orders sent by state child support agencies to employers
- The Federal Offset Program collected $1.9 billion in past-due child support
- Collections of $31 million were attributed to the Passport Denial Program, and an additional $153 million was collected from the Multistate Financial Institution Data Match and Insurance Match
- An estimated $113 million in additional child support collected through electronic exchange of income withholding orders (e-IWO)
- Child support agencies collected over $1 billion through a partnership with the Social Security Administration to garnish the benefits of recipients who owe past-due child support

To assist with intergovernmental child support case management, OCSE and state child support systems are interoperable, exchanging information daily through batch processing and leveraging a web-based interactive portal that allows for location services, case and participant inquiries, and document exchange. Currently all 54 states and territories and one tribe, the Muscogee Creek Nation, are using the Child Support Portal. While Congress established the NDNH to help state child support agencies locate parents and enforce child support orders, over time Congress has authorized certain state and federal agencies to receive information from the NDNH for authorized purposes, primarily to reduce improper payments from needs-based public benefit programs. Results from these data matches included:

- Bureau of the Fiscal Service recovered approximately $67 million in federal non-tax debt and $13 million in payment agreement collections;
- Department of Labor estimated benefits for State Workforce Agencies of $151 million from NDNH and SDNH matching, which includes the prevention, identification, and recovery of Unemployment Insurance benefit overpayments;
- Twenty-one states reported avoiding $21 million in improper Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program payments through NDNH matching; and
- Six state Temporary Assistance for Needy Families agencies reported $7.2 million in erroneous cost avoidance by using NDNH data.

In January 2016, Treasury updated its regulation governing the offset of tax refund payments to collect past-due support. Prior to this change, when IRS determined it made an erroneous or improper payment on a fraudulent tax refund intercepted for a child support debt, IRS reversed the offset from the state's future collection deposit, regardless if the funds had already been disbursed to the family. With the new rule, IRS and Treasury are limited to six months to recover an erroneous tax refund offset via reversal if the state already sent the funds to the custodial parent. FY 2016 reversals decreased $27.8 million or 21 percent from FY 2015 allowing states and families to retain more of their offset collections.

Also, in FY 2016, OCSE shared information about the child support program at over 20 employer and payroll conferences. OCSE also shared information about system enhancements with child support professionals at 18 national and state child support conferences, provided on-site Portal training with customized PowerPoint to 17 states, and delivered five national web-ex conference calls to discuss the Portal Usability and Enhancement Modernization Project. In addition, OCSE responded to tens of thousands of system related inquiries from parents, child support agencies, employers, federal agencies, insurance companies, and financial institutions.

Federal Systems Benefit to Cost Ratio: 177:1

The return on investment for OCSE's federal systems is calculated as the total amount of child support collections directly attributable to the systems compared to every dollar invested in them.

In FY 2016, total costs for federal systems were $21.9 million with collections of $3.9 billion resulting in a benefit-to-cost ratio of 177:1.

STATE AND TRIBAL SYSTEMS

In FY 2016, a few states continued to try to replace or enhance their legacy statewide automated case management computer systems built on aging technology. In nearly all states, the systems are obsolete, and in some states, the systems are close to the end of their usable lives. However, state budget constraints continue to delay most enhancement and replacement efforts.

Despite these challenges, some states and territories are beginning to conduct planning and feasibility studies to examine a path forward for replacement of their systems. In FY 2015, these states and one territory were Texas, Massachusetts, South Carolina, New Hampshire, Oregon, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Nevada, Guam, and New Mexico. In addition to the states that are conducting the feasibility study, some states like Idaho and Utah are re-platforming to essentially come out of an obsolete mainframe environment to a more distributed platform. The re-platforming projects are essentially a low-cost alternative to developing a new system.

To reduce the federal costs of automating tribal programs, OCSE developed the Model Tribal System (MTS) in FY 2013. The MTS is a comprehensive, highly configurable child support system available for implementation by tribal programs. By FY 2016, nine tribes—the Modoc Tribe, Forest County Potawatomi Community, Mille Lacs Band of Ojibwe, Lac Courte Orielles, Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians, Suquamish, Prairie Band of Potawatomi Indians, Chippewa Cree, and the Eastern Shoshone—had completed full installation of the MTS. During the fall of 2016, three tribes, the Confederated Tribes of the Colville Reservation, Sisseton-Wahpeton Oyate, and Cherokee Nation of Oklahoma, started installation of the MTS.

Other ongoing significant work with state and tribal systems included the continued management of the National Information Exchange Model's (NIEM) Human Services Domain on behalf of the Administration for Children and Families Interoperability Initiative. This included collaborative, interdisciplinary information technology projects designed to promote horizontal integration, facilitate shared services, and improve the exchange of data across systems supporting health and human services programs. Some of these projects included development and publication of the National Human Services Interoperability Architecture, the ACF Confidentiality Toolkit, and version three of the Cost Allocation Methodology Toolkit.

The State Systems Certification Guide that provides requirements for all existing and new state child support systems is being rewritten and will be released to the states and other stakeholders in the summer of 2017.

COMPETITIVE GRANTS AND INITIATIVES

OCSE awards competitive grants under two sections of the Social Security Act. Section 1115(a), authorizes OCSE to fund research and demonstration grants to promote Title IV-D purposes with a goal of improving the operation of the child support program.

Section 452(j), authorizes OCSE to fund projects that support information dissemination and technical assistance to states, training of state and federal staff, staffing studies, and related activities, as well as research, demonstration, and special projects of regional or national significance relating to the operation of IV-D programs.

OCSE awarded FY 2016 continuation funding to recipients of the Section 1115(a) National Child Support Noncustodial Parent Employment Demonstration grant program (CSPED), a five-year project awarded in FY 2012, and to recipients of the Section 1115(a) Behavioral Interventions for Child Support Services (BICS), a five-year project awarded in FY 2014. OCSE plans to award continuation funding for CSPED through FY 2016, and for BICS through FY 2018.

CSPED funds eight grants to state child support agencies to develop and implement programs that provide employment services to noncustodial parents in the child support system and a ninth grant to evaluate the eight demonstration service sites. These child support-led CSPED programs include the following components: (1) case management; (2) employment-oriented services that include job placement and retention services; (3) fatherhood/parenting activities using peer support; and (4) enhanced child support services that include review and appropriate adjustment of child support orders and programs to reduce child support debt owed to the state. The CSPED Evaluation consists of three parts: an impact evaluation, an implementation evaluation, and a cost-benefit evaluation.

BICS funds eight grants to state child support agencies to develop interventions and process redesigns that are informed by behavioral science and will increase parental engagement and regular support payments, and a ninth grant to evaluate the eight demonstration programs. The demonstration sites began designing their interventions, aiming to improve the processes of serving notice, setting support amounts, and commencing payments timely.

OCSE awarded funding extensions to recipients of the Section 452(j) Parenting Time Opportunities for Children in the Child Support Program (PTOC).

The PTOC grants fund state and county projects to develop, implement, and report on their family violence safeguards and evaluate procedures to establish parenting time orders with new child support orders for parents who were never married. Program sites are completing required evaluation activities and early indicators from the PTOC evaluations include:

- Successful integration of parenting time activities into child support order establishment processes;
- Promising trends in payment of child support by program participants;
- Improved parental relationships and increased involvement of noncustodial parents; and
- Expanded and sustained domestic violence enhancements to child support and parenting time services.

In FY 2016, OCSE awarded the Procedural Justice Informed Alternatives to Contempt (PJAC) grant. PJAC is a five-year demonstration project that will allow grantees to examine whether incorporating procedural justice principles into child support business practices increases reliable child support payments. Some parents find the child support agency and its processes frustrating and difficult to navigate, and that viewpoint can have a negative impact on compliance. The PJAC demonstration project seeks to change this misconception and increase parents' voluntary compliance with child support orders. By increasing their trust and confidence in the child support agency and its processes, the goal is to increase reliable payments, reduce arrears, minimize the need for continued enforcement actions and sanctions, and reduce the inappropriate use of contempt.

PJAC grantees will gather evidence to determine whether procedural justice practices improve reliable child support payments and impact other child support outcomes. They will also gather information to establish whether these approaches are more cost-effective than traditional contempt practices.

Grantees will spend the first year planning, designing and performing pilot testing. The next three years will be spent enrolling participants into the project. The final year will be used to evaluate and measure project effectiveness and impacts.

PJAC grantees will be required to participate in an OCSE-funded cross-site evaluation that will use a random assignment design to evaluate the effectiveness of the project demonstration. Demonstration participants will be randomly assigned to receive extra services or business as usual.

In addition to the six grants awarded to child support agencies to implement PJAC, OCSE also awarded a grant to procure and manage the national evaluation of PJAC under the authority of Section 1115(a) of the Social Security Act.

Access and Visitation

OCSE administers grants to states for the Access and Visitation Program, authorized by the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996 (PRWORA) under 42 U.S.C. 699(b). PRWORA appropriates $10 million each year to the states and territories for the Access and Visitation Program. Annually each state receives a portion of the $10 million federal appropriation according to calculations based on the formula stated in the program statute, and must contribute 10 percent of the total program costs through state match.

$10 Million
The amount appropriated each year to be allocated among states for programs to increase noncustodial parents' access to and time with their children.

The statutory goal of the program is to enable states to establish and administer programs to support and facilitate noncustodial parents' access to and visitation with their children by means of activities including mediation (both voluntary and mandatory), counseling, education, development of parenting plans, visitation enforcement (including monitoring, supervision, and neutral drop-off and pick-up), and development of guidelines for visitation and alternative custody arrangements. OCSE provided extensive technical assistance to states and territories to increase the efficiency and expand the reach of program services, including quarterly learning community webinars, an annual training conference, individualized assistance with service delivery plans, and site visits upon request. In response, states have expanded the availability of services to parents with child support cases, developed innovative strategies to provide services more effectively, and strengthened domestic violence protections for program participants.

OCSE Program Partnerships

Program partnerships are critical to fulfilling OCSE's goal of improving child support outcomes for all children. Partnerships are a particularly effective way to increase the consistency of child support payments in those cases where there are barriers to payment, by addressing the underlying reasons parents are not paying their obligations, such as unemployment, incarceration, parental conflict, or lack of access to their children. Partnerships also benefit other stakeholders in accomplishing their mission and goals, such as collaborations with the Department of Labor, the Department of Justice, and the Department of Veterans Affairs. Examples of FY 2016 partnerships include:

- Partnered with the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) to identify homeless veterans with child support issues, address child support debt, improve employment prospects, and restore family connections. OCSE also participated in VA Stand Down events to assist in providing services to homeless Veterans, such as child support information, enhanced case management, and modification request assistance;
- Participated in the Federal Interagency Reentry Council Workgroup to promote successful reentry and reduce recidivism of formerly incarcerated parents;
- Partnered with the Bureau of Prisons (BOP) to connect BOP staff to child support staff for cross training, to reach incarcerated parents, and to produce and pilot a state by state child support order modification guide now used in federal prisons;
- Partnered with the Office of Family Assistance (OFA) on their Healthy Marriage and Responsible Fatherhood grants to facilitate local child support collaborations and improve services and outcomes for fathers participating in the OFA grants. OCSE and OFA have worked together to partner with public and private stakeholders to help low-income families achieve economic stability;
- Participated in the Legal Aid Interagency Roundtable (LAIR) to increase access to justice by low-income people. This federal initiative promotes best practices and policies within federal and state agencies by increasing the availability of legal assistance across the range of civil and criminal issues;
- Partnered with the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), to increase employment and training services to parents in the child support caseload, and to increase coordination and referrals between OCSE and SNAP; and
- Partnered with Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) to examine enhancements to the process of post-eligibility referral to the child support agency to ensure appropriate and timely delivery of child support services. Further, this partnership began analyzing the merits and limitations of expanded data sharing.

POLICIES

International Child Support Program

Section 459A of the Social Security Act authorizes the Secretary of State, with the concurrence of the Secretary of Health and Human Services, to declare foreign countries or their political subdivisions to be reciprocating countries for child support enforcement. OCSE serves as the U.S. Central Authority for international child support and works closely with state child support agencies and our foreign reciprocating partners to provide child support services to families in international cases. The United States has designated 14 countries and 12 Canadian provinces and territories as foreign reciprocating countries for child support purposes. As the U.S. Central Authority for international child support, OCSE works closely with 26 foreign reciprocating countries and state child support agencies to process international child support cases. In 2015, OCSE provided training on international case processing and participated in meetings with key international partners, including Canada, Germany, Australia, and England and Wales. OCSE enhanced its international webpage by developing a web-inquiry form that allows users to contact the international team directly for international case processing advice and technical assistance. Overall, OCSE responded to over 700 customer service inquiries on international child support from families, states, and foreign countries.

The Hague Convention on the International Recovery of Child Support and Other Forms of Family Maintenance (Hague Convention) promotes the enforcement of child support obligations in cases where the custodial parent and child are in one country and the noncustodial parent is in another. In 2016, the United States ratified the Hague Convention. The main advantage to the U.S. of joining this Convention is that more children living in the United States will receive the financial support of both their parents, even if the parents live outside the country. The Convention provides for a comprehensive system of cooperation between the child support authorities of contracting states, establishes procedures for recognition of foreign child support decisions, and requires effective measures for prompt enforcement of such decisions. Under the Convention, the U.S. has child support reciprocity with more than 20 new countries.

The Secretary of HHS is the U.S. Central Authority for the Hague Convention and has designated OCSE to carry out the duties of the Central Authority. To prepare for implementing the Hague Convention, OCSE obtained approval through the Paperwork Reduction Act process to disseminate the Hague case processing forms to state child support programs. OCSE also completed the U.S. country profile, a document which describes U.S. child support laws and procedures, and conducted a training program for state caseworkers.

The Preventing Sex Trafficking and Strengthening Families Act, Public Law 113-183, authorized U.S. ratification of the Hague Convention and required states and territories participating in the federal child support program to enact the Uniform Interstate Family Support Act (UIFSA 2008) in the next legislative session. During FY 2015 and FY 2016, all 54 states and territories completed enactment of UIFSA 2008.

State Plan

As a condition of receiving federal financial participation, state child support agencies must have an approved state plan describing the nature and scope of their child support program that meets all federal requirements. The state plan consists of the preprinted state plan pages and any related attachments and contains all information necessary for OCSE to determine whether a state plan can be approved. Sections 454 and 466 of the Social Security Act set forth the requirements for submission of a state plan and plan amendments for the child support program. There were no new state plan submittals in FY 2016.

TRIBAL PROGRAMS

The Tribal Child Support Program provides grants to Indian Tribes and tribal organizations to operate child support programs. Funding for tribal IV-D grants is authorized under Section 455(f) of the Social Security Act. A final regulation setting forth the requirements for tribes and tribal organizations to apply for and receive direct funding for operation of tribal child support programs under 45 CFR 309 was published on March 30, 2004. In order to demonstrate the capacity to operate a tribal child support program, tribes or tribal organizations must include the following tribally determined performance targets in a tribal IV-D plan: paternity establishment, support order establishment, amount of current support to be collected, amount of past-due support to be collected, and any other performance measures a tribe or tribal organization may want to submit.

59 Comprehensive Tribal Programs

4 start-up programs with applications in review to become comprehensive:

- Apache Tribe of Oklahoma, OK
- Ponca Tribe of Nebraska, NE
- Shinnecock Indian Nation, NY
- Sokaogon Chippewa Community, WI

In FY 2016, the Tribal Child Support Program oversaw 59 comprehensive tribal child support programs and an additional four start-up tribal programs. Comprehensive tribal child support programs provide full child support services including: establishment of paternity and support orders, modification and enforcement of support orders, and location of noncustodial parents and their assets. Start-up tribal programs are in the developmental stages of operation and are working to demonstrate their capacity to operate as a comprehensive program. Tribes starting up a program are required to submit their expenditures during this phase of operation; however, start-up funding and statistical data are not covered in this report.

Most tribal child support programs are relatively new and have challenging caseloads due to a number of factors such as a smaller scale, higher unemployment, and higher poverty rates on reservations than in states.

Of the 59 comprehensive tribes in FY 2016, one-third became comprehensive during the previous five years. Despite this, these 59 comprehensive tribes reported collections of over $53 million, which was a six percent increase over tribal collections in FY 2015. In FY 2016, there were 58 thousand tribal cases.

CUSTOMER COMMUNICATIONS

During FY 2016, OCSE redesigned the OCSE website to make it mobile-friendly and improve accessibility of child support program information. OCSE also managed two blogs: the Commissioner's Voice, featuring messages from our commissioner highlighting important OCSE initiatives and Analyze This, providing in-depth analysis of data on child support to inform child support professionals and other stakeholders. OCSE supports plain language guidelines to ensure information written by the federal office is easy to read, understand, and use. Parents, program partners, and child support professionals visit our website for policy documents and contact and program information. OCSE manages communications campaigns to disseminate timely information through the appropriate social media channels. Customers also learned about OCSE, state, local and tribal initiatives promoting the well-being of children and families in our monthly e-newsletter, the Child Support Report. Our newsletter's reach is one of the largest in the agency, with distribution to more than 6,000 subscribers each month.

Using OCSE's Customer Inquiry Management system, OCSE responded to thousands of customer inquiries from the public, parents, Congress, the White House, HHS Office of Inspector General, and other officials and advocates. OCSE outreach campaigns targeted child support populations including military service members and veterans, and incarcerated parents.

[1] Alabama data adjusted based on revised data submitted after the final deadline for FY 2012.

[2] South Carolina does not currently distinguish the type of payment going to the family and so includes medical support payments to families in their reporting of "Payments to Families or Foster Care" rather than separately as "Distributed as Medical Support Payments", which is the data source of this table.

[1] The Total Number of Records Posted to the NDNH includes records submitted by both states and federal agencies. Therefore, the national totals are higher than the totals reported in the state-by-state report because that report does not include any records posted by federal agencies.

[2] The Total Number of Unique Persons in the FCR is derived by unduplicating SSNs across all participant types. The figures for the individual participant types are unduplicated within that category but not between them--i.e., an individual may appear in more than one category, but is only counted once within that category and only once in the total. As a result, the counts for the individual participant types may not add up to the Total Number of Unique Persons in the FCR. In addition, an individual can be a child support case participant in more than one state but is only counted once in the nationwide total.

[3] The Total Number of Unique Persons (NCPs and PFs) Matched is derived by unduplicating SSNs located across all data types (NH, QW, UI). The figure is unduplicated within each data type but not between them--i.e., an individual may appear in more than one category but is only counted once in that category and once in the total. As a result, the individual NH, QW, and UI counts may not add up to the Total Number of Unique Persons Matched.

[4] The MSFIDM match is performed quarterly. If an obligor has an account open over two quarters, the match would be duplicated each quarter. To compensate for this, the average of the four quarters during the fiscal year was used. Since an obligor can have more than one account, there are always more accounts than obligors located.

[5] States use the Child Support Enforcement Network (CSENet) to communicate case data and requests to other states automated systems in order to process interstate cases more effectively. A valid transaction involves the complete process of one state initiating and forwarding a request, and the appropriate state receiving this request. An Exchange agreement allows one state to forward a request to another state using CSENet. The total number of exchange agreements that an individual state has reflects the number of other states that it can send requests to. The national total is the sum of exchange agreements in all states.

[1] Processing Year, the calendar year the collections actually took place.

[2] Tax Offsets are based on intercepts of Federal Tax Refunds, while Administrative Offsets are based on intercepts of certain federal payments such as vendor and miscellaneous payments (that is, expense reimbursement payments and travel payments) and federal retirement payments. The tax and administrative figures add up to the Total figures and include both TANF and Non-TANF.

[3] The TANF and Non-TANF figures add up to the Total figures and include both Tax and Administrative Offsets.

[4] A certified case may be representative of an individual debt or an accumulation of TANF or Non-TANF debts. The criteria for certification of a debt for Federal Income Tax Refund Offset are as follows:

In TANF or Title IV-E foster care cases: the amount of past-due support must be at least $150.

In Non-TANF or Medicaid-only cases: the amount of past-due support must be at least $500.

The criterion for certification of a debt for Administrative Offset is the amount of past-due support must be at least $25.

[1] The Total Unique Persons in the FCR is derived by unduplicating SSNs across all participant types. The figures for the individual participant types are unduplicated within that category but not between them --i.e., an individual may appear in more than one category, but is only counted once within that category and only once in the total. As a result, the counts for the individual participant types may not add up to the Total Unique Persons in the FCR. In addition, an individual can be a child support case participant in more than one state; in these situations they are counted in the total for each individual state in which they are a participant but are only counted once in nationwide total. As a result, the individual state totals add up to more than the nationwide total.

[2] Some states code their Putative Fathers as NCPs when submitting them to the FCR. For those states Putative Fathers are included in the NCP figure instead of the PF figure, which is NA.

[1] The Unique NCPs and PFs Matched is derived by unduplicating SSNs located across all data types (NH, QW, and UI). The figure is unduplicated within each data type but not between them--i.e., an individual may appear in more than one category but is only counted once in that category and once in the Unique Persons Matched column. As a result, the individual NH, QW, and UI counts may not add up to the Unique Persons Matched figure.

[2] These totals are summations of the individual state totals. Since an individual may be involved in child support cases in more than one state, there may be duplicates between the states. Therefore, these totals are higher than the unduplicated totals that are reported at the national level.

To the extent that medical support has been assigned to the state, medical support collections must be forwarded to the Medicaid agency for distribution in accordance with current regulations under Title XIX of the Social Security Act (Medicaid). Otherwise, the amount must be forwarded to the family.

It would include collections from various sources such as per capita payments and Tribal casinos.

Tribal Unemployment Rate (Optional Reporting)

This is an optional reporting line, and may be obtained from an actual study or report such as the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) Labor Force Report, or other Tribal calculations based on Tribal members, Tribal child support caseload, or other appropriate group.

Tribal Joblessness Rate (Optional Reporting)

The joblessness rate is an alternative measure of unemployment. No standard definitions were provided. Tribes may choose how to calculate this measure.

How an Incentive Payment is Determined

Because of the complexity of the incentives formula set forth in section 458 of the Social Security Act, we have included an example of how the system would work in a particular year for State A. Let's make the following assumptions regarding State A (See Table A):

- State A's paternity performance level is 93 percent, making its applicable percentage 100 percent (see Table C)
- State A's order establishment performance level is 74 percent, making its applicable percentage 88 percent (see Table C)
- State A's current support collections performance level is 59 percent, making its applicable percentage 69 percent (see Table D)
- State A's arrearage support collections performance level is 60 percent, making its applicable percentage 70 percent (see Table D)
- State A's cost-effectiveness ratio is $4.40, making its applicable percentage 80 percent (see Table E)
- State A's collections base is $50 million (determined by 2 times the collections for Current Assistance, Former Assistance, and Medicaid Never Assistance plus Never Assistance collections and fees retained by other states)
- The maximum incentive for State A is:
    - $50 million collections base for paternity ($50 mil. times 1.00), plus
    - $44 million collections base for orders ($50 mil. times 0.88), plus
    - $34.5 million collections base for current collections ($50 mil. times 0.69), plus
    - $26.25 million collections base for arrearage collections ($50 mil. times 0.75[1] times 0.70) plus
    - $30.0 million collections base for cost-effectiveness ($50 million times 0.75[1] times 0.80) equals
    - Resulting in a maximum incentive base amount of $184.75 million for State A.

[1] Because the measure has less weight.

Table A

Measure	State A's Performance Level	Applicable Percentage based on Performance	Weight	State A's Collection Base (assumed to be $50,000,000)
Paternity Establishment	93%	100%	1.00	$50,000,000
Order Establishment	74%	88%	1.00	$44,000,000
Current Collections	59%	69%	1.00	$34,500,000
Arrearage Collections	60%	70%	.75	$26,250,000
Cost-Effectiveness	$4.40	80%	.75	$30,000,000
State A's Maximum Incentive Base Amount				$184,750,000

We must now make some assumptions regarding the other States. Let's assume that there are only two other States in our country--and the maximum incentive base amount is $84 million for State B and $50 million for State C, making the total maximum incentive base amount $318.75 million for all three States (See Table B).

- We must now determine what is State A's share of the $318.75 million. It is 58 percent ($184.75 divided by $318.75).

Table B

State	Maximum Incentive Base Amounts	State's Share of $318,750,000	Incentive Payment Pool $461,000,000
A	$184,750,000	0.58	$267,199,216
B	$84,000,000	0.26	$121,487,059
C	$50,000,000	0.16	$72,313,725
Totals	$318,750,000	1.00	$461,000,000

- Let us assume it is FY 2003, so the incentive payment pool for the FY is $461 million (see Table F).
- Since State A's share is 0.58, this state has earned 58 percent of the $461 million incentive payment pool that Congress is allowing, or $267.2 million ($461 mil. x 0.58) incentive payment for this particular fiscal year.

Table F

Incentive Pool Payment, FYs 2001-2016

The incentive payment pool is:

- $429,000,000 for fiscal year 2001
- $450,000,000 for fiscal year 2002
- $461,000,000 for fiscal year 2003
- $454,000,000 for fiscal year 2004
- $446,000,000 for fiscal year 2005
- $458,000,000 for fiscal year 2006
- $471,000,000 for fiscal year 2007
- $483,000,000 for fiscal year 2008
- $504,000,000 for fiscal year 2009
- $504,000,000 for fiscal year 2010
- $513,000,000 for fiscal year 2011
- $526,000,000 for fiscal year 2012
- $538,000,000 for fiscal year 2013
- $547,000,000 for fiscal year 2014
- $556,000,000 for fiscal year 2015
- $558,000,000 for fiscal year 2016

The incentive payment pool after FY 2008 is the amount of the incentive payment pool for the preceding FY, multiplied by the percentage by which the Consumer Price Index (CPI) for that preceding FY exceeds the CPI for the second preceding FY.

The CPI for a FY is the average of the CPI for the 12 month period ending on Sept. 30 of the FY. The CPI means the last CPI for all-urban consumers published by the United States Department of Labor. The NOT seasonally adjusted CPI numbers are used.

The percentage increase between the preceding FY (FY 2008) and second preceding FY (FY 2007) is about 4.44%. So, $483 million (the FY 2008 incentive pool amount) plus 4.44% equals about $504 million (the FY 2009 incentive pool amount).
